50th Anniversary Northfield Conferences Founded by DWIGHT L. MOODY

Northfield Students' Conference

The Young Men Students' Conference, started by D. L. Moody 44 years ago, opened its annual week of meetings last Friday with an address by Prof. Reinhold Niebuhr of New York City. The purpose of the conference is to study the life and teachings of Jesus and their personal application to society, both on the campus and in wider national and international relationships.

Among the leaders of modern thought in religion and social problems who have spoken at the conference are Dr. John R. Mott, chairman of the World's Missionary Council, and for a long time head of the International Y. M. C. A.; G. Sherwood Eddy of New York City, pioneer in Christian internationalism; Reinhold Niebuhr of Union Seminary, New York City; Raymond Calkins of Cambridge, Mass.; W. A. Visser't Hooft, Geneva, Switzerland; and Sidney Lovett of Boston, chairman of the conference. Men from 25 Eastern colleges, as well as student guests from many lands, were present.

Besides the student secretaries, W. J. Kitchen and George G. Workman of Boston, a number of group counselors like C. Leslie Glenn of Cambridge, Mass., John Currie of New York and Fay Campbell of New Haven, participated in conversations with the students.

The Northfield Summer Conference committee includes E. McCune Fleming, Yale '30; E. Fay Campbell, Yale; Hamilton Moses, Amherst; Waldo Powers, Boston University; Robert Reeves, Williams; and Brooke Stabler, church representative.

This is the first of seven regular Summer Conferences held every year at Northfield.

The Sunday program started with Communion, conducted by Rev. Arthur Kinsolving. At 8:30 a. m. Prof. Reinhold Niebuhr of New York spoke on Problems That Face the Modern World. Again in the evening at a Round Top he addressed the gathering on the topic, The Spirit and Person of Jesus.

Prof. Reinhold Niebuhr of Union Theological Seminary, New York City, spoke Sunday at the Northfield Student Conference on Problems That Face the Modern World. He said there were three phases of the subject—the individual must come to terms with himself, with his fellow man, and with the universe.

"Today, as never before," he said, "man feels himself transcendent over nature. Over the physical world, he is eminent. Is it equally true in the moral world? Our fathers had their place in the universe morally, fairly well defined. God and evil were definitely tagged. In our modern world that is not so simple. Such great changes have taken place in modern times that our adjustment to life is extremely difficult.

"Some feel that good and evil in our day have gone by the board. All is relative. We can follow our instincts and not go wrong. Sex, for example, because it is perhaps the most pressing is therefore taken as the center of life. What is needed is an inner harmony of the vital capacities that makes for constructive growth. In play, for example, there are by-products to the goal of winning such as health, fun, increased muscles. These arrive in addition to the chief object. It is qualities in the moral realm that make for a fuller expression of the vital capacities.

"Secondly, the relation of the individual to his fellow man. Modern civilization has related us to each other mechanically but less so organically. In former days the individual was more of a definite entity in the community. Today economic power is a strong force that motivates our relationships mechanically. To achieve harmony in such an environment is difficult. A social intelligence is necessary. It is not intelligence as a corrosive but as a stimulus that is desirable. The detached cynic who looks upon the scene and calls it anything from a tragedy to a farce is on the brink of despair.

"Suppose we try to arrive at a situation where we can be a fellow to our neighbor; suppose man is able to conquer nature, the problem then arises as to relationship to the universe itself. What is his conception of it? How about the conflicting conditions of nature—her blindness, cruelty, capriciousness? How is man to live in this kind of a world? The people who can see beyond these hostile forces of nature have arrived at spiritual sensitivity. If a man achieves a high degree of unity in his own life, he sees unity in the universe—love. Tolstoy came to that conclusion after he had wandered around in intellectual despondency. Then only do we come to see a deeper meaning in life. We need a sight of the whole. When we pray, we close our eyes to the world. Religion is poetic insight.

"In conclusion, what is the relationship of our experience to total experience? The modern says he must throw out all the traditions of the past. They will soon come in again through the door. Traditions are, to a degree, the quintessence of the past, and a truly scientific man realizes this. To me, Jesus is not so much authority as inspiration. Tradition contains elements of truth accumulated by many generations, and no individual can find them out by himself.

"We are living in the tradition of a pioneer age. We do need the courage to amend the old in such a way that it will fit into our day. We need rebels. We need a combined reverence for the past and a rebellious courage to go out and seek to put new life and new meaning into it—in short, Christian idealism to meet the needs of our day."

Monday at the Auditorium service, Dr. Paul Harrison, medical missionary from Arabia, was the platform speaker. In the evening at the Round Top, Rev. Dwight Bradley, recently appointed to the First Church of Newton, spoke. Rev. Sidney Lovett of the Mount Vernon church of Boston is chairman of the entire conference.

For those people in America who desire to see the evil effects of promiscuity in marriage life, Arabia is an ideal study," said Dr. Paul Harrison, noted medical missionary to Arabia, at the Student Conference here last Sunday. "There for thousands of years," he went on to say, "a man has been able to take a wife about as freely as he desired, and all done with complete legality. The social conditions resulting from this situation will convince any one of the foolishness of such an experiment."

Dr. Harrison asserted that the chief reason for missionary endeavor is not to bring medical and social science to foreign lands, but to present Jesus Christ. All else is subsidiary. "It is the cure of souls that is the primary object. The Bible is the authority for the missionary, and he needs no other defense."

"Because people worship the power of force and interpret religion as such, instead of recognizing power as love, we have social problems such as war, negro inequality, industrial hatreds, class antagonisms," declared Prof. Ralph Harlow of Smith College, in a discussion on Social Problems, playing the United States War Department for the insidiousness with which it seeks to justify war by means of quotations from the Bible.

"When the Intelligence Department interprets a passage as 'The eternal God is our refuge and underneath are the everlasting arms,' and that 'The Lord is a man of war' as Biblical authority for war," the speaker went on to say, "then it is high time that we took notice. The Kaiser's most recent outburst was no more absurd."

Reading from a book that is used in R. O. T. C. classes, Prof. Harlow pointed out the acceptable purpose of the course for the boys to be read by mothers, and inferred that further perusal would not follow. He then read from Sec. 14, where it is clearly stated that "the great purpose of this course and all military training is success in battle." By a number of very appropriate illustrations familiar to Mr. Harlow, his points were made extremely vivid.

"The Conference is growing in numbers and enthusiasm. Yesterday the group of leaders was augmented by the arrival of Fay Campbell from New Haven and C. Leslie Glenn of Cambridge. Dr. Richard Roberts of Toronto, Canada, spoke at a Round Top on The Spirit and Person of Jesus.

That we are living far below our spiritual and moral possibilities chiefly because we do not will to lift ourselves high enough, was the assertion of Dr. Richard Roberts of the Shelbourne Street United Church of Toronto, Canada, continuing the discussions on the Spiritual Resources for Effective Living.

"The first 13 chapters of the Book of Acts furnish many examples of the swift transitions that can occur in the lives of men when they give themselves over to the spirit of God," the speaker said. "The great religious revivalists, of which the last was the Methodist, was prefaced by a long season of devotedness to prayer, accompanied by a firm resolve to plumb the very depths of the inner man in order to become a more fitting servant of God. This type of consecration, which seeks power at the source, always makes for a greater man."

Rev. Robert Russell Preacher at Sage Chapel Sunday

At Russell Sage chapel, East Northfield, on next Sunday, the Rev. Robert Russell of the Larchmont Avenue Presbyterian church of Larchmont, N. Y., will be the speaker at 10:45 a. m., and again at 8 p. m.

Northfield Young Women's Conference, June 23-30

Conference Theme, "Thy Word Is Truth"

Between 400 and 500 young women will gather at East Northfield Monday, June 23, from many of the prominent private boarding schools, high schools and business schools for the purpose of thinking about the place and meaning of religion in their lives.

For 29 years the Conference has been meeting at Northfield, a location ideal by nature and particularly conducive to meditation and thought. An extremely interesting array of speakers has been arranged, among whom will be Canon Craven of Liverpool, England, chaplain to the King; Dr. J. V. Moldenhawer of the First Presbyterian church of New York City; Rev. George A. Buttrick, D. D., of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian church of New York City; Dr. Robert E. Speer, president of the Board of Missions, of New York City; Rev. Arthur Kinsolving of Grace church, Amherst, Mass.; Rev. Guthrie Speers of Brown Memorial church of Baltimore, Md.

Additional speakers will be the Rev. Elmore McKee of Yale University; Prof. Ralph Harlow of Smith College; Rev. Wilhelmus Bryan of the First Presbyterian church of Princeton, N. J.; Rev. Robert Russell of the Larchmont Avenue Church of Larchmont, N. Y.; Harold Nicely of East Orange, N. J.; Rev. Frank S. Niles of Hwai-Yuen, China; Cornelius Trowbridge of Salem, Mass.

The following schools will send representatives: Dobbs Ferry, Farmington, Westover, Abbot, Westtown, Dana Hall, Buffalo Seminary, Northfield Seminary, House-in-the-Pines, Kent Place and Emma Willard. Besides regular delegations from these schools, other girls will come in groups from Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Rochester, New York City, New Jersey, Greenwich and Winchester County.

Commission on Evangelism Meets in Shell Castle

The Commission on Evangelism and Life Service of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, with Bishop A. R. Clippinger as chairman, met June 18 for its session at Shell Castle, recently annexed to the Northfield hotel. It is the beautiful chapel of the castle, the first meeting was held and addressed by the Rev. Richard Roberts of Toronto, Canada, who spoke on the Decisive Christian Experience.

He maintained that a theory about Christianity without a real personal experience of the power of God acting in his own life is useless as a means of winning others to a knowledge of a better life in Christ. "The spirit of God in the individual," he said, "was as necessary today as it was in the day when Jesus lived and taught." Dr. Roberts said that his methods were both applicable today and vitally necessary if the Kingdom of God was to be made real on earth. At a later period in the morning, an informal round-table discussion took place, at which problems in connection with evangelistic work were prominent. Since the men taking part were all leaders actively engaged in this sort of work, the contributions were of great value. It was the consensus of opinion that never before was there any greater need for a personal devotion to a higher ideal such as the character of Jesus than now. The hope of the world is, indeed, in the message of Christ.

At noon a short period of worship was led by Rev. Walter A. Lingle, president of Davidson College, North Carolina. His general theme was Continuing Pentecost. In the afternoon, Dr. Charles W. Browbaker, director of the Bureau of Evangelism, United Brethren in Christ, was the speaker. The evening speaker was Rev. Elmore McKee of Yale, who talked on Youth and Evangelism.

West Northfield-South Vernon

A pretty outdoor wedding was held last Sunday afternoon at 2:30 on the lawn under a maple tree at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Wheeler, when Mrs. Wheeler's granddaughter, Miss Hazel M. Bowling of Manchester, N. H., was married in the presence of 45 relatives and friends to Edward J. Carr, also of Manchester. Rev. E. E. Jones of Vernon was the officiating clergyman. The bride was attended by Miss Mabel Thompson of Manchester, while the best man was the bridegroom's cousin, Dr. William Carr of Derry, N. H. The bride was given away by her father, Almon S. Bowling of Bradford, N. H. She was dressed in white satin trimmed with silk lace, and she carried pink roses. The bridesmaid carried sweet peas. Among those who attended the ceremony were relatives and friends from Bradford, N. H., Derry, N. H., Keene, N. H., Manchester, N. H., and South Vernon. After a wedding luncheon, Mr. and Mrs. Carr left for a trip over the Mohawk Trail and through New York State and Vermont, after which they will be at home at Manchester, N. H., where Mr. Carr is an electrician.

Mrs. Mattie Little and daughter, Miss Gladie Bowling, and Mrs. Carr, all of Manchester, N. H., spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Wheeler.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Skillings and Mrs. Leonard Curless of Stepeny, Conn., spent the week-end with Mr. Skillings' brother, G. F. Skillings.

Mrs. Carl Huntley and Arlene of Brattleboro took dinner with Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Skillings, Sunday.

Mrs. Millie Shearer of Montague City spent the week with her sister, Mrs. G. F. Skillings.

J. Albert Fairfield of Conway, nephew of Mrs. Harry Gray, was a member of the graduating class at Mount Hermon on June 9. He won two prizes, the Mary Ellen Davis prize for efficient work in the school dining hall and the Fanny C. Surplus prize for the greatest improvement in senior English. Mr. Fairfield is the son of the late George Fairfield, who was a Lieutenant in the United States Navy. He plans to study next fall at Boston University and at the New England Conservatory of Music.

Warren G. Brown has been spending a week's vacation with his mother, Mrs. M. H. Brown, before returning to Mount Hermon to work during the summer. At Commencement last week he was awarded the James F. Whittle scholarship of $150 for general excellence in the junior class. This scholarship is to be used toward paying the tuition in his senior year.

Next Sunday at the South Vernon church at 10:45 a. m., Dr. William E. Moody of East Northfield will be the speaker. Mrs. Moody is expected to come with him and to assist in the singing. Church school will be at 12:05 p. m.; evening service at 7 p. m. at the church; mid-week service at the Vernon Home at 7:30 p. m. Thursday. All services are held on standard time. Everyone is cordially invited to attend the services. Let us fill up the church and give Dr. and Mrs. Moody a glad welcome, such as his father, D. L. Moody, used to have here.

A very interesting children's service was held last Sunday at the South Vernon church. After a number of recitations were given by the children, Rev. H. E. Buffum gave a very interesting talk to the children. This talk was illustrated by a series of different sizes and conditions. One series with a large hole represented the way our bad deeds leak out and hurt other people. Another that was full of dirt showed that our lives must be clean before we can do our best. Other scenes that were clean and whole told of the means by which we may be cleansed of evil, thus leaving only the good, with which we may influence others to better living. Out of 42 children who were given potted geraniums on Easter Sunday, the first five who brought back the plants in bloom were each given a large potted luchsia. These, in order, were: Hollis Larnie, Warren Randall, Eleanor Barnes, Ruth Dunklee and Edith Tenney. After the service, a picture was taken of the children and the officers of the Sunday school.

Miss Marcia Beers visited her friend, Mrs. Ellen (Brown) Stebbins, in Deerfield, Monday. Mrs. Stebbins is a former resident of this town. She lived on what is now the Clark farm.

Mrs. Clarence Beers and Mrs. Frances Powers of Vernon and Miss Lillian Stebbins of St. Petersburg, Fla., were Monday guests at Mrs. Ella Beers.

Mrs. Isabelle Lawrence of Brattleboro has opened her summer home at Elmshade Farm.

Miss Olive Edson returned Monday to her work in New York City after spending a month with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Edson.

Miss Eunice Edson of Northfield was a week-end guest at E. P. Edson's.

Mrs. Drown of Greenfield attended the Children's Day service at the church and took dinner at the home.

Sage Chapel Services

The Rev. Robert M. Russell, pastor of the Larchmont Avenue Presbyterian church, Larchmont, N. Y., will be the preacher in Sage chapel at 10:45 a. m. and 8 p. m. next Sunday.

Tercentenary News

H. Buchholz & Son of Springfield will send a representative to Northfield Monday, June 30, to meet all who wish to hire costumes for the approaching Tercentenary celebration, July 30 to Aug. 1. He will be at the Town hall at 7 p. m. Costumes are in such demand at the various celebrations throughout the State that early action is advisable.

The Tercentenary Conference committee at 9 Park street, Boston, is issuing free a weekly folder entitled "Tercentenary Events." This folder is envelope size and contains a list of the celebrations all over the State, what they are and on what days they are held. The folder is especially useful to tourists who may want to know where to go on certain dates. Write for a copy if you want one.

Next rehearsal of the Old Folk's Concert chorus tomorrow (Saturday) night at 8 o'clock in the Town hall.

Nineteenth Annual Meeting

The nineteenth annual town meeting of the women of Northfield, to elect three members of the committee for Alexander hall, will be held Saturday, June 21, at 3 o'clock. It is hoped that all women who benefit by this hall will come out to transact the necessary business. Per order of the committee.

Northfield Man Shares N. Y. Estate

Walter J. Brigham of East Northfield shares in the estate of his aunt, the late Augusta B. Priest, according to a report of the State transfer tax department in New York last Monday. He is left $10,555. Other Massachusetts residents sharing in the estate include Ruth Hicks, Pittsfield, grandniece, left $7,611; Albert S. Brigham, Dorchester, nephew, $10,555, and Mable H. Perry, East Norton, $100. Mrs. Priest died Nov. 9, 1928, leaving an estate appraised at $32,596 gross value, $29,422 net. Executors are Chester M. McLaughlin of Bronxville, N. Y., and Albert Fuller of Taunton, Mass.

Dr. Pratt Sails With Church Party

Rev. Dr. A. P. Pratt of Greenfield was a member of the American Congregationalist party of 600 which sailed Saturday from New York on the S. S. Adriatic, bound for Liverpool on a return "good will" pilgrimage to England. There they will attend the International Council of Congregational Churches at Bournemouth, July 1 to 8. Two years ago an English delegation visited this country. The party is headed by Dr. Fred B. Smith, moderator of the National Council of Congregational Churches in America, and Rev. W. L. Lee, moderator, Southern Province, Congregational Union of England. The Fourth of July will be celebrated with an Independence Day banquet at which Premier Ramsay MacDonald will speak and a message will be read from President Hoover. The party includes many men and women whose names are outstanding in the Congregational church.

Will Give Bible Readings

Rev. Joseph East Harrison, for many years head of the Bible Department at Mount Hermon school, will give again this summer his daily Bible readings at The Hotel Northfield after June 20. Mr. and Mrs. Harrison have spent the winter in Atlantic City, where Mr. Harrison has been very much occupied giving Bible readings, conducting Sunday services and teaching classes in Sacred Art. Mrs. Harrison had the misfortune to break her ankle recently while visiting in Germantown, Pa., but has improved so that they will make a visit with their son, the Rev. Mr. Harrison of Buckland, Mass., before going to The Northfield for the summer.

Kenneth Miller

W. D. Miller, with his daughter, Mrs. Miss Gladys, have just returned from Oberlin, Ohio, where they attended the graduation exercises of his son, Kenneth. Kenneth has for three years been captain of the cross country team of the college, and last summer had the honor of being chosen from the college for a traveling scholarship which gave him two months' study in Geneva, Switzerland. He has accepted a fellowship at Ohio State university for next year, where he will assist in the department of commerce and social administration and carry on post-graduate studies. During the summer he will act as a counsellor at a boys' camp in Wisconsin, Me.

On June 24, Richard P. the younger brother, will receive his diploma from Middlebury college. Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Kenneth and Gladys, are all planning to attend those exercises. Richard, a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity, has held, among other honors, that of head cheer leader, and has been manager during his senior year of the college baseball team. Both Richard and Kenneth are graduates of Mount Hermon school in the class of 1926.

Personal Mention

The nineteenth annual town meeting of the women of Northfield will be held at Alexander hall tomorrow (Saturday). A large attendance is requested.

Miss Muriel Kendrick of 23 Highland avenue received the degree of Master of Arts from Boston University on June 16. She received her A. B. from Connecticut College for Women in 1929, and was graduated from Northfield Seminary in 1924. This fall Miss Kendrick is to teach at Mt. Ida School and Junior College in Newton, Mass.

John E. Clough and Miss Johnson of Tolland, Conn., visited at his brother's, J. E. Clough, Monday.

Miss Marian Kendrick has returned from Connecticut College for Women, New London, where she has just completed her sophomore year.

The annual dance and reunion of the High School Alumni will be held at the Town hall, Wednesday, June 25. Dancing will be from 8:30 to 12:30. A cordial invitation is extended to all residents of Northfield, whether members of the society, but who are interested in keeping up the traditions of the school.

There will be a food sale on the Unitarian church lawn next Thursday, June 26, from 2 to 5 p. m.

Rev. Robert M. Russell and family of Larchmont, N. Y., have leased for the summer the house on Birnam road formerly occupied by the Virginia Fresh Air Camp, instead of having rooms at the Northfield hotel as in the past.

Ray M. Vorce, Jr., of Somerville, Mass., is spending a month with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Vorce.

Miss Helen Vorce returned from Middlebury college on June 18. She will spend the next ten days at Camp Sherman, Brimfield, Mass. The camp is conducted by the American National Red Cross and is a first aid and life saving institute.

Northfield Chapter, O. E. S., held its regular meeting Wednesday evening at Masonic hall. A family supper was served at 6:30 by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leach. Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Morgan, Mrs. Fred Wells, Mrs. Carroll Miller and Mrs. M. T. Moore. This was the last meeting until September.

A number of members of the Northfield O. E. S. attended the Matrons' and Patrons' night held Thursday evening by the Mary Lyon Chapter, Shelburne Falls. Mrs. Louise C. Krause, Worthy Matron of Northfield chapter, officiated as Associate Matron and Roy C. Flanders, Worthy Patron of Northfield chapter, officiated as Associate Patron.

On June 13, at Booth Memorial hospital, New York, Margaret Ladd Spear arrived to join the other two bright and attractive daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Spear. Mother and daughter are doing nicely.

Lawrence Quinlan and his sons, Lawrence and Ray, returned yesterday from Newark, N. J., where they had gone to attend the funeral of Mrs. James Quinlan.

Mrs. James Quinlan

On Tuesday the sad news was received that Mrs. James Quinlan succumbed to the malady from which she had been suffering for so long. The sympathy of the community where they had made their home for so many years goes out to the bereft husband and his family of children. During the years of her residence here she had endeared herself to all by her sunny disposition and ready sympathy. Her love and thoughts centered on her home and children, to whom she gave unstintingly of herself. Her home was in Newark, N. J., from which city they moved to Northfield, and had only returned to Newark within the last few months.

More Males Killed in Automobile Accidents

Man may be the lord and master, but not yet without risk, for it is still safer to be a woman—at least on the highways. Figures compiled by the Governor's committee on street and highway safety indicate that the death rate for males in automobile accidents is almost five times as high as that of females, some compensation for the hazards of motherhood. Those figures are for the age group 20 to 24 throughout the country. Taking the death toll for all ages in Massachusetts last year, it is revealed that only 26 per cent of the fatalities were of women. That this circumstance is not due solely to the fact that men drive more than women is shown by the additional statistics that of the pedestrian victims only 29 per cent were women. The Governor's committee concludes that motorists at least exhibit some chivalry in choosing their victims, but ends its statement with a plea that the male also be spared.

Small Town Stuff

If, when you were born, all your relatives wanted to name you, your dad passed the cigars to all his friends and his "firm" gave him the rest of the week off, that was "small town stuff."

If, when you graduated from high school you sent invitations as freely as a farmer sows his oats, and you got a present from everyone you invited because they really wanted to wish you well—that, too, was small town stuff.

If, when you got married, your boss called you in and personally congratulated you, raised your wages and had you out to his house for dinner as soon as you got back from your honeymoon, that was small town stuff.

If, when your house burned the tenth year of your married life, half the town left their work to fight the flames, two of your competitors staged their eyebrows and baked their faces dragging out your grand piano, and your worst enemy dashed in at the last minute to save your kid's canary—that, also, was small town stuff.

If that same year—your hard luck year—you got a check you couldn't identify at Christmas time for just the amount that would pay your wife's last hospital bill—that was small town stuff.

If one day you happened to meet the State's Governor off his beat in a tour to the capital and you put him on the right track, and everyone in town spoke of you extra-cordially for a week afterwards, that was small town stuff.

And finally—if after you read this you tilt back in your chair and say with a grin, "Gosh, that reminds me of the time, etc.,—then, you too, thank heaven, really understand "small town stuff!"

Trade at Home

We note in an exchange an item telling how a citizen of that town bought an article in a city store and paid $1.50 for it. Later he purchased the same item at his home town store for $1.25. Thereupon the breast of this aforesaid citizen swelled with patriotic pride and he declared that henceforth and forever he would patronize home merchants. While we are glad to note that something woke up the above described gentleman to his plain duty to the community, it rather cheapens his patriotism to know that after all it was merely the matter of a few cents difference in price that caused him to decide in favor of the home town store. Then, too, if he had made much of an effort to find the article at home he would have soon found out among the few stores of his home town whether or not he could have gotten it at home.

It is much easier to be critical than to be correct.—Benjamin Disraeli.

Urged to Submit Damage Done by Partridges

Fruit growers of Massachusetts are being urged by the State Department of Agriculture to submit definite statements and proof as to damage done to their apple trees by partridges last winter. Some of them are known to have suffered considerable damage; with others the damage done by the partridges is less apparent. The Department is seeking definite information on the situation in view of the fact that the Legislature recently referred to the next session a bill which would allow the State to pay for damage done by partridges, the same as it now pays for damage done by deer.

Referring this bill to the next Legislature was approved of by the Department of Agriculture because of the confusion and the conflicting statements which were being made. It was not only a question of the amount of actual damage done, but one of whether it was not an unusual situation which might not occur again for a long time. The Massachusetts Fruit Growers' Association was in favor of the principles of the bill. The theory on which the Fruit Growers are seeking legislation is the same as in payment for deer damage. They say that the State protects deer for the pleasure of sportsmen and that it has recognized the principle that damage done by these protected deer should be made good to the farmers of the State. They say further that partridges are protected for the benefit of the sportsmen and that the State is equally responsible for the damage they do. The Department of Agriculture took the view at the hearing on the bill that the evidence at the present time is not sufficient to warrant a sound judgment as to what should be done and that definite information could not be secured in time for this session of the Legislature.

Representatives of the department will interview some men who have offered damage during the past winter and will have concrete evidence of such damage through pictures and definite inspection of the trees. The damage is done in the winter months when the partridges are short of food and nip off the apple buds. If they distributed their "pruning" over the whole orchard, taking off a few buds from each tree, the resulting damage might not be so great. In practice, however, the partridges start in on a tree and practically strip it of buds on some branches. This not only destroys a lot of prospective apples, but it results in mis-shapen trees.

The Department of Agriculture suggests that any fruit growers who suffered any material damage from partridges last winter should take pictures of the branches before they have added on new growth this year. In any event, the department would like to hear from such men with definite statements as to the damage done.

Balboa Discovering the Pacific
Balboa, a young Spanish adventurer, fired with the ambition of discovering a great ocean to the west where gold was said to be plentiful, set out with about two hundred men and supplies. In 1513, leaving his men at the foot of a peak in the mountains, he reached the top, and there, gazing with awe upon the mighty Pacific, thanked God for his discovery.

Strawberries To Be Sold Under
New England Label

Strawberries will be the latest addition to the Massachusetts products which will be sold under the New England Label. The success of this plan for the identification of homegrown products has been so marked in the case of Massachusetts eggs, asparagus, apples, turkeys and "day-old-chicks" that the strawberry men are going to try it out this year. The start will be made by a group of strawberry men at Falmouth on Cape Cod. If their experimental use of the label proves as satisfactory on strawberries this spring as it has in the past two years when used on other agricultural products of the State, there will probably be a large increase in its use another year, both in this and other sections.

The Division of Markets, State Department of Agriculture, which has the use of the label in its charge, has been in conference with these strawberry growers of Falmouth and has made arrangements for the supervision and inspection of the packing of these berries, so that the high quality and uniformity will be maintained. Under the provisions of the Massachusetts law, the Commissioner of Agriculture of the State can establish grades on certain products and allow the use of the quality products label to such growers as voluntarily agree to keep up to the standards set. There is no compulsion on other growers to meet these standards or to sell under the label, but experience has shown that there is a decided trade advantage in doing so. This year the State Department of Agriculture has provided 150,000 labels for use on various farm products produced within the State.

There are 67 men in the Falmouth Strawberry Growers' Association and they have about 350 acres of strawberries this year. They will market from 20,000 to 30,000 crates of strawberries. Not all of these will be sold under the label this year probably, but 10,000 have already been ordered for use by the members of the association who are in the best position to pack their berries in accordance with the standards which have been set up by the Department of Agriculture. Under the plan which has been developed the Division of Markets will furnish several men to go to Falmouth at the beginning of the picking season and demonstrate the way in which the berries should be standardized and packed to meet the New England Quality Products requirements. After this instruction has been given, it will be up to each grower to follow the instructions given by these experts. The crates of berries will be inspected before shipment. Each grower will have a number which will appear on his label, and any failure to keep up to the standard can be traced back to the individual owner. Permission to use the label will be taken away from any grower who shows inability or disinclination to keep up to the standards set.

It Takes Live Men To Make A Live Town

We sometimes hear the expression that if this town could be this, and could be that, how much better it would be.

Some of us have looked about us and have seen other towns that seemed to have more of the things that make for a bigger and better town than we have. It is true, some towns do have more than we have, but in the majority of instances they have these things because somewhere in the town is a man who was not satisfied with things as they were. He wanted them better. He interested those about him and soon they became a group of men working together toward the accomplishment of one end.

The result was a better town, a different atmosphere that was progressive and the town became known everywhere in that section as a good, live town.

We believe that Northfield has enough live, progressive, aggressive men to make this community all that we want it to be.

Hints For Homemakers

INDISPENSABLE furnishings in a well-regulated kitchen are accurate scales and measuring utensils; a pair of shears to be used only in the preparation of foods; and, since the success of so many dishes depends upon correct timing, a reliable clock such as one of the new electric kind that plug into the wall and can't go a second off without showing a warning signal.

The use of a small amount of sugar, much as we use salt and pepper, mitigates the harsh taste of many foods without sweetening them. Used in the preparation of meat sauces and gravies, it accentuates the various flavors, binds them into a harmonious whole, and improves the color.

The Garden Theatre

The final showing of the current all-talking dramas, "Slightly Scarlet," with Olive Brook and Evelyn Brent, and Charley Murray and George Sidney in the humorous comedy, "Around the Corner," with Movietone News, will be shown today (Friday) for the last time.

Starting with the matinee tomorrow and for four days, Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, comes Clara Bow, who set the world afire with her personality in silent pictures, her voice added a ton of appeal, her first talking roles, and now she blossoms forth as one of the most exciting and delightful "scorch" singers heard on the screen so far. In her latest "It" hit, "True to the Navy," she sings, "There Is Only One Who Matters to Me," with all the "It" appeal.

"True to the Navy" starts a four-day engagement at the Garden theatre tomorrow, and includes Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. It is another nautical story like "The Fleet's In." Clara, a soda fountain girl, serves "It" with her sodas and the sailors from the battle fleet fall hard for it. Although she has a favorite boy friend on every ship, Clara treats them all alike until Frederic March knocks down all rivals and strides into her heart. Clara's discarded suitors, however, tell March she is just playing with him, as she was with them. March breaks off on the verge of a proposal and Clara is heart-broken. Action with plenty of comedy is supplied by Harry Green, "The Kibitzer." Sam Hardy is also seen and heard in a splendid role as the crooked race track promoter. Frederic March, who has supported practically every star in the huge Paramount organization, plays the "Boy Friend" of Clara. The whole whole cast was carefully chosen to add just the right note of romance, suspense and joyful fun to the production. There are several interesting scenic settings, action scenes aboard the huge battleship fleet off San Diego, Cal., where the scenes were filmed. Added to this program will be four comedy, novelty, news and drama talking short subjects.

The last half of the week, starting Wednesday, comes Evelyn Brent in the melodrama, "Framed," and the added feature will be Grant Withers and Allen Pringle in "Soldiers and Women."

A little boy found a button in his salad. He nonchalantly remarked, "I suppose it fell off while the salad was dressing."

"When I hear a woman sing, I clap my hands."
"So do I, over my ears."

Patient: "The size of your bill makes my blood boil."

Doctor: "Ten dollars extra for sterilizing your system."

THE new cotton chenille rugs in gay colors and striking patterns are the very thing to brighten up the rooms in the summer home. The fact that they are washable is a great advantage. The better kind are absolutely color fast, and will emerge from the harshest laundering without the slightest loss of shape.

A little grated orange peel gives squash a different and wonderfully delicate flavor. Squash should always be steamed. When tender, mash in a hot bowl until smooth. Season with salt to taste, one-half teaspoon sugar, and butter the size of an egg, for each quart. Beat well, adding four tablespoons thick cream. Pile in hot dish and serve.

Some Tire Thoughts

VERY few motorists think of their tires until they have had a puncture or blowout, or until excessive wear begins to show on one or more wheels.

I drive my car on a different basis, because I know something about tires and something about car manufacture. The wheels of my car are lined up once every month and my brakes are adjusted at the same time.

Tires are an expense and any expense that can be delayed is a dividend. How many times have you watched a motorist coming toward you with the front wheels of his car out of line? They are either too in too much or spread out in such a way as to cause excessive wear on the tread.

After signs of such wear are noticed it is frequently too late to repair the damage to that particular tire. But the trouble should be rectified at once, in the interest of future conservation. Adjustment of the tie-rod between the steering arms of the front wheels will often correct the trouble.

In these days of mechanical and hydraulic four-wheel brakes, and the ever-increasing traffic congestion which makes their use more frequent and more urgent, it is essential that they be given frequent attention. They may need adjustment only once, out of every four or five times they are inspected, but it is better to be safe than sorry. If one or more of the brakes takes hold a little quicker than the rest, it means greater sliding of these wheels, and therefore an excess of tire wear. It also means that the car is more likely to skid on a wet pavement or in an emergency. Furthermore, you lose traction, and that costs money.

Here is a tip that may prove valuable to you: Change your tires from wheel to wheel every once in a while. It is claimed that the tires on the rear wheels wear out faster than those on the front wheels, particularly on lighter cars. By changing them, wear on the non-skid tread on all four tires is prolonged.

I also believe that free spring action is essential to real ease of riding and find that ball-bearing spring shackles help in attaining this desirable feature. They will outlast the car itself, they don't squeak, and they need no greasing or adjustment. The use of these shackles has been on the increase since riding comfort began to be a consideration.

Daily Vacation Bible School

Calvary Methodist Church of Hinsdale is planning a Daily Vacation Bible school, June 23-July 12. Last year's vacation school was so successful that the committee on religious education in the church decided to lengthen the term one week, and has hired Miss Alice E. Belcher of Fair-Miss Belcher is the daughter of a Methodist minister, has attended Plymouth and Keene Normal schools, taught school for ten years and comes with the best recommendations.

New courses will be added this year. Three will be three classes for children and young people, instead of two as last year, a course in leadership training for Sunday school teachers, and a course in preparatory membership.

The regular school will meet every forenoon from 9 a. m. to 12 noon, while the leadership training and preparatory membership classes will meet in the evening, enabling all those who are interested to attend.

Plans are now under consideration to provide transportation for students from North Hinsdale who wish to attend the school. The North Hinsdale church has decided to hold its Sunday school at 10:30 every Sunday morning instead of in the afternoon as formerly, and worship every other Sunday morning at 9:30, beginning June 22.

There is a fine group of young people and teachers working together at North Hinsdale. Several persons took a stand for Christ and church during the revival meetings conducted recently by the Rev. Mark R. Smith of Silgo, Penna., and the results are being conserved by the efforts of both churches.

Calvary M. E. church Sunday school will give a Children's Day program Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. The program includes a pageant, "The Church of Corinth," given by the young people, and many other interesting parts.

Ford Offers New De Luxe Sedan

Ford De Luxe Sedan

THE De Luxe Sedan, recently added to the Ford line, is designed for those who desire distinctiveness and unusual comfort in an automobile. The interior is inviting and roomy with wide doors to both compartments. Absence of rear quarter windows gives the car a striking individuality and affords privacy to the occupants.

Interior trimmings and appointments are luxurious. Upholstery is either in brown mohair or a deep tan Bedford cord patterned after that used in high-priced cars.

Other refinements include arm rests for the rear seat, mahogany finished garnish moldings on the windows and beneath the windshield, flexible robe rail and hardware in an attractive pattern.

The front seat is adjustable within a range of four inches to suit the convenience and comfort of the driver. It is moved quickly and easily by a small, inconspicuous handle in the front center of the seat just above the floor. The De Luxe Sedan, like other Ford body types, can be obtained in any one of several color combinations.

Good Advertisements Sell Merchandise

Every week this paper goes into the homes of this community, where it is carefully read.

Not only the news, but the advertisements as well, are read. No week goes by but that it contains at least some sort of message from each business represented in this community.

This does not mean that it is necessary to advertise a special sale or cut prices. It is not. Thousands of advertisers never offer reduced prices or special sales. They merely tell in an interesting way the story of their store and the goods they have to sell, and in so doing create a desire in the mind of the reader and make of him a new customer.

A well prepared advertisement is nothing more nor less than a well prepared sales talk.

JUST BEFORE THE BATTLE

"My razor don't cut at all."
"Why, George, you don't mean to tell me that your beard is tougher than the oil cloth I cut this morning."

Algernon (reading joke): "Fancy this, Percy. A chap here thinks that a football coach has four wheels."
Percy: "Haw, haw! And how many wheels has the bally thing?"

Shall be the use of those people who mean well, but mean well feebly.—Roosevelt.

Fear not that thy life shall come to an end, but rather that it shall never have a beginning.—Cardinal Newman.

Be sure that religion cannot be right that man is the worse for having.—William Penn.

NATURE'S GOOD SERVICE

"You're not always troubled with poor light, are you?" asked the company inspector.

"Oh, no," said the patient customer. "Ah, ha. I thought so. It's at certain times, eh?"

"Yes. Only after dark."

INSTALLMENTITIS

"Joseph, if your father could save a dollar a week for four weeks, what would he have?"

"A phonograph, a new suit, a refrigerator and a set of furniture."

After the First Twenty-five Thousand Miles

THE VALUE of sound design, good materials and careful craftsmanship is especially apparent in the new Ford after the first twenty-five thousand miles. Long, continuous service emphasizes its mechanical reliability and economy of operation and up-keep.

As you drive the Ford through many months and years you will develop an increasing pride in its appearance and a growing respect for the substantial worth that has been built into it. From every standpoint—in everything that goes to make a good automobile—you will know that you have made a far-seeing, satisfactory purchase.

Wherever you go, you hear enthusiastic praise of the car and this significant, oft-repeated phrase—"I'm glad I bought a Ford."

A FORD owner in New York tells of a 13,000-mile trip across the United States and back in sixty days and says "the car was extremely economical to operate, comfortable and speedy." A grateful father tells how the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield saved his wife and children from serious injury.

To test tires, a large company drove a new Ford day and night, for an average of 500 miles every twenty-four hours. It was still giving satisfactory service after 105,000 miles.

A Ford car that had fallen into Fernan Lake was submerged for twelve days before being raised. After a new battery and carburetor bowl were installed, it was driven back to Spokane under its own power.

Many police departments have written of the special advantages of the Ford in crowded traffic because of its alert speed, acceleration, and ease of control. An increasing number of fleet owners are also purchasing the Ford because their cost figures have given conclusive proof of its economy of operation and up-keep.

In addition to important triumphs in Germany, France and Italy, the Ford won six out of seven leading places in a contest in Finland, first and second in the Rafaela races in Argentina, first and second in the run from Copenhagen-to-Paris-to-Copenhagen, three gold medals in England, first ranking in the durability test over the tortuous Amancaes road in Peru, and first place in the 1930 reliability run conducted by the Royal Automobile Club of Sweden.

This contest was an exceptionally severe test of endurance and sturdy construction because it was held in the dead of winter and covered 600 miles of steady running over snow-covered country roads and mountainous hills.

SAVE A DAY THE C & B WAY

Man Against Microbes

Man's struggle to adapt himself to his environment changes with the changing centuries, but it goes on unceasingly. Although he need no longer battle with the monstrous mastodon, he has not yet vanquished the microbe. The odds, however, are not against him. We are reassured by recent scientific discoveries that there is still truth in the old proverb that nature brings forth none but she provides for them.

As a result of experiments at the College of Medicine of the University of Illinois, Dr. Lloyd Arnold asserts that the skin of our bodies has the power of disinfecting itself with astonishing rapidity. If we get germs on our hands, for instance, nature immediately begins an invisible cleansing process to kill them off. The cleaner the skin is, the more quickly it can do its work. Dirt and oil retard the bactericidal action.

Dr. Arnold's experiments showed that a clean hand which had been submerged in a suspension of bacteria disinfected itself completely within ten minutes while an unwashed hand treated in the same way still retained 95 per cent of its dangerous guests at the end of that time. When a layer of fat or vaseline was applied to the skin, the process was slowed up. The disinfection went on—but it took the skin a much longer time to rid itself of impurities. The knowledge obtained through these experiments should give us a new sense of security against the microbes of disease, for we have at hand a simple weapon of defense. If we keep our hands and bodies clean with soap and water, there is a good chance that will be automatically and quickly destroyed. Then, if we are cut or scratched, infection is not so likely to take place. Nor are the germs that cling to our hands after contact with unclean objects or the hands of others so likely to survive for a long life of travel.

In some far distant Utopia, pathogenic microbes may be as extinct as the huge monsters which made life hazardous for our cave-dwelling forbears. But since they are still an ever-present, though invisible reality, we are fortunate in having so resourceful an ally as nature.

Bad News for Jokesmiths

Another ancient gag has gone the way of all flesh. New brides no longer give their husbands indigestion with home-made pastry and cake.

Vaudeville actors, cartoonists, comedy moving picture directors and Joe Miller will now have to revise their chain of thought in this direction. At least, this is the thought expressed by Elizabeth Carter of the Radio Household Institute, who is probably one of the best known household radio broadcasters on the air today, and talks daily to more than a million housewives over a nationwide network of stations.

"The modern bride knows much more about the science of cooking and baking today than her grandmother," Miss Carter declares, "despite general public opinion to the contrary. In the first place, domestic science is one of the important studies in the modern school. All the newest cooking discoveries are placed in the hands of our educational institutions by world-known authorities, and, as a result, when the modern girl learns a cooking hint, she is capitalizing on the expenditure of huge sums of money and years of experience paid for by food manufacturers.

"The bride of bygone days who used to struggle with her first cake with all the help she could get from ordinary flour and the many other ingredients used under the old-fashioned methods, has given way to the modern bride who uses special cake flour and saves her husband's digestion. The ordinary bride knows that ordinary flour contains gluten especially suited for bread and other slowly-rising types of baked goods. She knows that it is only a matter of extremely good luck when a cake made with ordinary flour comes out right. The availability of special cake flours is not only a boon to the housekeeping woman who desires to add variety to the menus she serves her family, but it takes the guesswork out of what was one of the most uncertain of culinary activities."

Conservation of Wild Life

A special committee of the United States Senate has been appointed to investigate all matters pertaining to the replacement and conservation of wild life (including aquatic and bird life) with a view to determining the most appropriate methods for carrying out such purposes, together with its recommendations for the necessary legislation.

The committee has been instructed to report its findings to the Senate as soon as possible, and not later than the beginning of the first regular session of the next Congress. It has been given full power to call witnesses and take testimony under oath and also to call for the production of all data in connection with the subject. This action by the Senate is the broadest and most comprehensive yet taken to conserve the birds, fish and wild animals of our nation.

The activities of the committee will necessarily cover a vast range of subjects, including Federal game reservations, bird sanctuaries, wild life in our National parks and forests, the problem of migratory birds, of upland birds, of predatory animals and of fishes of the Atlantic, Pacific, Gulf and inland waters. The study will also have to deal with the seal industry, the fish industry, the fur industry and all others connected with wild animal, aquatic and bird life. The plan of the committee is to make an exhaustive study of all these problems and of the laws connected with them. To do this they will call upon the Biological Survey and the commissioners of bird sanctuaries and game reservations of the Department of Agriculture; the Bureau of Fisheries of the Department of Commerce; the National parks and the National monuments of the Department of the Interior; the State departments of Game and Fisheries, and all National organizations in any way connected with the subject.

This is a research work of very large proportions and will probably require a year or more to assemble, classify and digest the facts. After all recommendations from governmental, individual and private sources have been assembled and studied, it is the intention of the commission to recommend to the United States Senate any changes or additions which they consider necessary in or to existing laws pertaining to conservation.

The committee is strictly non-partisan. In the appointment of it, Vice President Curtis chose not only those Senators whom he considered best qualified, but he also endeavored to distribute his selection geographically. The Pacific States, the Atlantic States, the mountainous States, the Central and Southern States, and those adjacent to the Canadian border are all represented.

Senator Frederick C. Walcott is chairman. He was for seven years president of the Connecticut State Board of Fish and Game and was chairman of the State Water Commission. He has been a leader for many years in investigations having to do with the conservation and preservation of game in various parts of the country. Senator Harry B. Hawes, vice chairman, has been a widely known authority on fish and game for 25 years. He is the author of the Upper Mississippi Wild Life, Fish and Game Refuge bill, which was the first constructive measure involving the direct expenditure of government money for reclamation and conservation of the waters of the Upper Mississippi River. He is also the author of various other bills relating to the preservation of fish and game and is a member representing the Senate on the migratory Bird Commission. As a member of Congress, he was spokesman for the Isaac Walton League.

Senators Hawes and Walcott are the authors of the present bill on wild life resources. The other members of the committee are as follows: Senator Key Pittman, who is now beginning his 18th year in the United States Senate, has been identified with National legislation in relation to fish and game conservation throughout his career.

Part of his early life was spent in Alaska, where he took a prominent part in the gold rush as prospecting attorney for the Nome. He is thoroughly familiar with the National park, national forest and game sanctuaries of America.

Senator Charles L. McNary has uniformly supported wild life conservation. He is the author of the Fish and Wild Life Refuge bill and the amended Alaska game laws. Senator McNary is chairman of the Committee on Agriculture and has in this capacity become an authority on the farmers' needs in the matter of conservation.

Senator Peter Norbeck is likewise with Senator Hawes on the Migratory Bird Commission. He is author of the bill creating this commission. He was also the author of the Game Refuge bill, the Protection of the American Eagle bill and the Predatory Animal Control bill.

The committee has chosen as its secretary Morris Legendre, a graduate of Princeton and a Rhodes scholar to Oxford. He has made extensive studies of wild life, not only in the United States, but also as a member of scientific expeditions to Africa, Asia, Alaska and the South Seas.

The committee hopes that the exhaustive study it plans to make will enable it to form a national legislative policy for the replacement and protection of the wild life resources of the nation that will endure for many years, a policy which has for its purpose the perpetuation of the wild life of our nation so that the future generations may enjoy it.

Organizations and individuals who are interested in this matter should address their inquiries or suggestions to the committee, Room 207, Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C.

FORD PRICES REDUCED

Again Ford has given the public the benefit of a price reduction, this reduction being due to the tremendous volume of sales the Ford Company and Ford dealers are having.

The new Ford today is by far the lowest priced car in the market, is unquestionably the most economical car to run, and has the highest re-sale value, as a used car, of any car built. It has unlimited power and speed, is an easy riding and handling car and of unquestionable quality.

The proof of these facts are more and more evident every day. The number of people of good car judgment and sound common sense who are purchasing Ford cars is increasing daily. Incidentally, a large proportion of these purchasers are people who could easily afford a higher priced car.

Chemicals From Natural Gas

Carbon black, synthetic resin and synthetic alcohol are listed in natural gas products. Perhaps some day foodstuffs will be supplied from this source. Natural gas is rapidly becoming an important raw material in the manufacture of chemicals, according to Page Golsan, business manager new processes of obtaining a synthetic resin and alcohol from natural gas are great achievements in the chemical field and point to further development, which may be very important. To chemical companies not abreast of the times, the trend may be a matter of great concern.

Few people realize that natural gas is a mixture of chemicals in gaseous form, Mr. Golsan stated. As an industrial and domestic fuel it is well known, but few know that the long life modern tire and handsome radio panels contain natural gas ingredients. Music from talking machines is sweeter and less scratchy because carbon black from natural gas made it so. Each year natural gas is used more and more as a raw material in the chemical industry, being a cheap source of primary ingredients. The carbon black industry is directly based upon natural gas as a raw material. The increased output of carbon black has been large, being 47 per cent more in 1929 than 1928. Carbon black gives auto tires their toughness, about two pounds per tire being used. Use in inks and paint is increasing, and it is used in phonograph record manufacture to make a better product.

It is pointed out that one of the newer uses of natural gas is in the manufacture of a synthetic resin. Since the growth of the radio and electrical industry, the use of synthetic resin has also been rapidly increasing. In 1927 about 13,000,000 pounds of synthetic resin were produced. In 1930 it is estimated that upwards of 50 to 60 million pounds will be produced. New fields are being developed constantly, including furniture, auto parts and bodies, hardware, building trim, and in replacing hard rubber. A further new use of natural gas is in the manufacture of synthetic alcohol. Alcohol is one of the prime chemicals upon which many industries are based, and this new use holds great promise. It will not be surprising to see other new uses for natural gas announced at any time. A chemist with an imaginative mind may even work out a foodstuff from natural gas.

Who can say but that great chemical industries may soon be located along the natural gas lines being built today? Every advance in making chemicals cheaper spells trouble for chemical manufacturers who are not abreast of the times. Research today pays bigger dividends than ever.
